Location & surrounding area:

Costitx belongs to the ancient Mallorca, located between Inca and Sineu and nowadays has some 967 inhabitants (2007). Besides relevant archaeological findings from the talajotic culture dated VI century, it is the site of Mallorca's only astronomic observatory (planetarium). The center of the village is mostly characterized by houses of the XVII century. The surroundings, as well as all other places in the middle of the island, are mostly agricultural and belong to a region called 'Pla de Mallorca' (Plain of Mallorca).
